OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

The Department of Education is responsible for the education and training of the people of Newfoundland to the full extent of their abilities and desires. Its mandate spans the educational structure from kindergarten to post-secondary education and lifelong learning.

K-XII

The Province of Newfoundland and Labrador has a denominational education system at the K-XII level. Under this arrangement, responsibility for education is shared between the provincial Government, through the Department of Education, and the major Christian churches, through three denominational education councils: the Roman Catholic Education Council; the Integrated Education Council, which comprises the Anglican, Moravian, Presbyterian, Salvation Army, and United churches; the Pentecostal Assemblies Education Council.

The Seventh-Day Adventist Church also operates a school system, but it has relatively few students and is not part of the denominational education council arrangement.

The Government's Role

The basic responsibility of the Government is to see that the Province offers the best possible educational services to all students. This responsibility is discharged through the following means:

- The enactment of laws and regulations governing the operation of schools. This legal framework provides for, among many other things, the establishment of school boards and their responsibilities, the certification of teachers, the allocation of teachers to boards, and the funding of educational programs.

- The development and prescription of basic courses of study. Prescribed textbooks are supplied to school boards free of cost or at a subsidized rate.

- The establishment and maintenance of educational standards. This is done through such measures as the certification of teachers and the testing and evaluation of pupils. Also, strict health and safety standards govern all school buildings.

- Education is financed through payments to school boards. Money for school construction is paid to the denominational education councils.

The Churches' Role

The churches are represented in the K-XII sector of the educational system through denominational education councils. The task of these councils is as follows:

- Determining how and where money will be spent for new school buildings, extensions, and equipment.
- Recommending to Government the establishment and alteration of school district boundaries.
- Recommending to Government the appointment of school board members.
- Recommending the initial certification of teachers.
- Prescribing religious education programs.

School Boards

There are 27 school boards in the Province administering the day-to-day operations of schools. School boards are responsible for such things as the organization of schools within their districts, the fixing of attendance zones, the repair and maintenance of school buildings, the employment of teachers and other staff, and the transportation of pupils.

Under the present Schools Act, at least two-thirds of the members of each school board must be elected by popular vote. School board elections are held every four years, coinciding with municipal council elections. Every school board meeting, unless it is a privileged meeting, is open to the general public. Through participation in the electoral process and attendance at meetings, the general public contributes to educational decisions made at the community level.

Post Secondary

This component comprises Memorial University, Colleges, and Private Training Institutions. Memorial is Governed by An Act Respecting the Memorial University of Newfoundland, revised in 1970; the Colleges are governed by An Act respecting Colleges of Applied Arts, Technology and Continuing Education, assented to December 11, 1991; the private institutions are governed by An Act Respecting the Regulation of Private Training Institutions, assented to July 8, 1988.

Boards

To conduct the affairs of post-secondary institutions (not including the private training schools), the Government of Newfoundland and Labrador has established a board of regents for Memorial University and five boards of governors for the colleges.

The Board of Regents of Memorial University is appointed pursuant to the Memorial University Act. It comprises the Chancellor of the University (ex officio), the President (ex officio), the Vice President (ex officio), seventeen members appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, two students recommended by the student body and appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, and six members elected by the Alumni. The Board is responsible for the management, administration, and control of the property, revenue, business, and affairs of the university. The boards of governors for the colleges are Crown corporations, and are subject to the provisions of the Corporation Act. Each board comprises the President (ex officio), and up to thirteen members appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council. One of these appointed members may be a representative of the Department of Education, nominated by the Minister; one may be a representative of the faculty of a college; and one shall be a student of the college nominated by the executive body of the student association of that college. The boards are responsible for directing the affairs of the institutions, determining courses and programs (subject to the Minister's prerogative) and enacting bylaws for the conduct of business.

Memorial University of Newfoundland. The University has full power and authority to establish and maintain such faculties, colleges, schools, institutions, departments, chairs, and courses as the Board of Regents may deem met; to give instruction and training in all branches of knowledge and learning, including physical instruction and training; to grant degrees (including honourary degrees), diplomas, and certificates of proficiency; to provide facilities for original research in every branch of knowledge and learning and to conduct and carry on such research; and, generally, to promote and carry on the work of a university in all its branches.

Besides the main campus in St. John's, the University operates a second campus in Corner Brook, Sir Wilfred Grenfell College.

The college offers the first year in all programs offered by Memorial University (except Music), the first one or two years of most professional and nonprofessional university degree programs, and the entire four years of the Bachelor of Fine Arts (Visual Arts) and Bachelor of Fine Arts (Theatre) degrees.

In March 1992, the Institute of Fisheries and Marine Technology was united with Memorial University as the Fisheries and Marine Institute of Memorial University. The legislation which was enacted charged the University to provide: degree, diploma, certificate and other programs in the areas of fisheries and marine science and technology; and, upgrading and enhancing of the fisheries and marine labour force in cooperation with the colleges. The Board of Regents of the University has established an industry-based Advisory Committee to advise the Fisheries and Marine Institute respecting fisheries and marine-related programs.

Community Colleges. There are five community colleges: Cabot College of Applied Arts, Technology and Continuing Education; Eastern College of Applied Arts, Technology and Continuing Education; Central Newfoundland College of Applied Arts, Technology and Continuing Education; Westviking College of Applied Arts, Technology and Continuing Education; Labrador College of Applied Arts, Technology and Continuing Education. The Colleges operate facilities which provide programs leading to a certificate or diploma. They identify the needs in their regions and offer programs to meet these needs, the needs of the labour market, and needs determined by their boards to be in the public interest. Programs designated as provincial programs and programs regulated by statute may not be offered or terminated without the approval of the Minister. The Minister may require colleges to modify, suspend or terminate courses and/or programs considered necessary.

Private Schools. There are a number of private training institutions in Newfoundland offering employment-oriented training for a wide range of occupations. All private training institutions offering a course of 50 or more instructional hours in a vocation are required by law to be registered by the Department of Education. Registration ensures that these schools are following the act and regulations pertaining to private training institutions.

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Structure

The Office of the Minister consists of the Minister of Education, the Deputy Minister, and three assistant deputy ministers. These officials are responsible for administering the Department of Education and its legislation through its three branches.

The Primary, Elementary, Secondary Branch has three Divisions: Program Development, Student Support Services, and School Services and Professional Development.

Program Development is responsible for all courses of study, except religion, for elementary and secondary schools. It is also responsible for the administration of the high school certification system; the selection and distribution of texts; the acquisition, production, and distribution of supporting materials (audiovisual, etc.); distance education; language programs; and the administration of the Official Languages Bilingual Agreement.

Student Support Services is responsible for special education programming, guidance, retention, the Newfoundland School for the Deaf, and hospital schools. The Division coordinates programs offered through the Atlantic Provinces Special Education Authority.

School Services and Professional Development is responsible for liaison with school boards and other educational agencies in the interpretation and application of legislation, regulations, and departmental policies pertaining to the operation of schools. The Division is also responsible for school services, field services, teacher certification, approval of school construction projects, and coordination of professional development.

The Advanced Studies Branch has four divisions: Postsecondary Education, Industrial Training, Student Aid, and the Literacy Policy Office.

Postsecondary Education is responsible for the regulation, coordination, and evaluation of public and private postsecondary programs. Program consultants and management personnel assess provincial training needs and conduct program development, revise existing provincial programs, carry out analyses of program proposals submitted to the Department, design and implement program evaluation strategies, initiate and conduct research into new instructional methodologies and technologies, research and provide for postsecondary staff development, fulfil the Department's obligations with respect to pertinent aspects of acts and regulations governing the postsecondary sector, and provide a liaison with other departments and agencies provincially, nationally, and internationally.

Industrial Training is responsible for meeting the needs of employers for skilled trades persons in the Province through the interprovincial Red Seal Program. Industrial training consultants implement the provisions of the Apprenticeship Act.

Student Aid provides financial assistance to students attending postsecondary institutions.

The Literacy Policy Office coordinates literacy initiatives in the Province's postsecondary education system.

The Director of Public Relations also reports to the Deputy Minister and is responsible for all Public Relations activities for the Department.

The Finance and Administration Branch is responsible for the formulation, implementation, evaluation, and control of policies and procedures relating to finances, accounting, administration, personnel, information, records management and administration of services to youth. This is done through five divisions:

Financial Services and Operations provides financial, accounting, internal control, budgeting, general fiscal control, records management, administrative, and business management services for the department.

External Financial Relations is responsible for the administration of all financial aspects of the provincial educational system, including grants to school boards and postsecondary institutions, pupil transportation and teachers' payroll processing.

Human Resources provides personnel services, including staffing, administration of collective agreements and related policies, payroll services, and coordination of staff training policies with the Public Service Commission.

Systems and Methods is responsible for coordinating, reviewing, and managing electronic data processing resources; assessing manual administrative systems; and advising senior officials on the use of these resources.

Youth Services Division offers programs and services which enhance the leadership and citizenship skills of young Newfoundlanders. It also responds to youth related issues and concerns which are not assigned to another Ministry. Therefore, Special Projects form a regular part of the Division's activities. The Division's programs include:

- Duke of Edinburgh's Award
  Young Canadians Challenge
- Youth Advisory Council
- Youth Travel Programs
- Grants to Youth Organizations
- Youth Awards Program
- Special Projects
- Skills Program
- Regional Services

The Division of Evaluation, Research and Planning is responsible for all major functions related to performance assessment, accountability and strategic planning. The primary responsibility of the Division is to provide the Department and the Education System with a service which will help policy any program decision making. More specifically, the Division provides information on: i) how well students/learners are achieving educational goals; ii) the extent to which programs and services are appropriately designed and implemented to help achieve these goals; (iii) the extent to which inputs (financial, capital and human resources) are providing the necessary support to the educational enterprise; (iv) education in the Province; and (v) the analytical relationships between the various indicators named in (i) to (iv) above, and how these can be interpreted for planning purposes. As well, the Division provides Executive support and coordination of intergovernmental, national and international activities of the Department. It has responsibility for educational equity services, and it maintains responsibility for activities which are not clearly within the responsibility of other Divisions. The mandate gives the Division responsibility for evaluative an planning services across the Department, as well as in the school and training systems. The Division reports to the Deputy Minister.
